

Toronto, ONTARIO –April 3, 2017 – Anne Johnston Health Station a Community Health Centre and Tobias House Attendant Care Inc. an attendant services provider announced that they have voluntarily integrated. The integration will focus on improving access to a broader range of primary care, health promotion, and personal support services for people with physical disabilities, seniors and youth in the community to support them with optimizing health, well-being and independent living.

“We are proud to be one organization with one vision – making a difference in the lives of the people and communities we serve”, said Sue Cooper, Board Chair of Tobias House Attendant Care. “We believe that this integration will enable us to offer our clients a greater variety of high quality programs and services that they can choose from to support them with continuing to live independently in the community.”

“It’s all about people”, said Greg King, Board Chair of Anne Johnston Health Station. “We will be continuing to work closely with our clients, communities, and system partners in the upcoming months as we move forward. We are committed to offering our expertise and delivering the services that people need, at the right time and in the right place.”

An executive search process is currently underway. The Chief Executive Officer for the amalgamated organization is expected to be appointed by the Board this Spring.
